PlanetPress Connect helps companies make better use of their data and to build personalized, automated and interactive customer communications.

Printed communications are here to stay but, with the rise of digital technologies, the majority of consumers expect to have alternatives to print such as; responsive emails, web portals, text messages and other forms of digital output.

Developed to make digital transformation easy for any business, even with limited resources and time, PlanetPress Connect helps companies overcome the rigidity of large data systems.

- Leverage your existing data wherever it may be
- Output in industry standard print formats
- Natively output HTML emails and web pages
- Trigger follow-up processes based on customer interactions

PlanetPress Connect uses data from different systems and re-designs the output to make it consistent and to improve your customer communications without the risk of making changes to your critical business processes.
